Client : Restaurant Le Friand d'Œuf

General Description :

Located in Sainte-Thérèse since 1991, Le Friand d'Œuf is a restaurant specializing in brunch and breakfast, recognized for its high-quality homemade dishes. The establishment values friendliness and attentive service, offering a welcoming atmosphere suitable for families and a loyal clientele. Although highly appreciated by its regulars, the restaurant lacks modernity, both in its decor and its website, and could benefit from an update to better reflect its identity and attract a broader customer base.

- Unsuitable Current Typography: The fonts used on the site are legible but neutral and lack character. They do not convey the warm hospitality or charm that the restaurant should reflect and lack modernity.
- Generic Graphics and Visual Elements: The buttons, boxes, and sections are functional but lack personality and modernity, failing to transmit the cozy and warm atmosphere of the restaurant.

- Inappropriate Color Palette: The site mainly uses black and white, paired with neon red headings. Although these headings grab attention, the overall appearance feels unbalanced and harsh, as the bright red creates too strong a contrast against black and white areas without any smooth transition or harmonious link between colors. This intense contrast makes the site tiring to view over extended periods and prevents comfortable reading. This is especially true on the menu page where the background is black, titles are bright red, and descriptions are white. This color combination does not reflect the warm, welcoming identity of Le Friand d'Œuf, nor the pleasure and quality the restaurant wishes to convey to its customers. The site would benefit from being redesigned with a harmonious palette that evokes friendliness, freshness, and delicious food while remaining pleasant for visitors.

Proposed Improvements:

- New color palette and typography choices

Expected Result:

- A modern, harmonious, and memorable website that reflects the warm and friendly personality of Le Friand d'Œuf.

Harmonious Color Palette Representative of the Restaurant:

- #859e50 (Matcha) → Conveys freshness and naturalness, evoking homemade ingredients and dish quality.
- #eeae21 (Egg Yolk / Jaune d'œuf) : Evokes warmth and friendliness, creating a welcoming feeling and joy around the meal.
- #f4f4f2 (Egg White / Blanc d'œuf) : Provides breathing room in the design and enhances readability, avoiding an overcrowded or harsh look.
- #bfcfa0 (Green Tea / Thé vert) : Adds a soft, soothing shade that reinforces the welcoming feel of the site.
- #f4ce7b (Pineapple / Ananas) : Adds a tasty, warm touch that evokes the pleasure of having breakfast in a pleasant environment.
- #141414 (Chia) : Provides sufficient contrast for text, ensuring readability while maintaining elegance.

Why this palette works for the site:

These colors create a harmonious balance between freshness, warmth, and legibility. Furthermore, they reflect Le Friand d'Œuf's identity: a friendly, welcoming restaurant that prioritizes an enjoyable experience for its customers. Together, these colors give the website a modern and inviting look that reflects the friendly ambiance expected from a brunch and breakfast restaurant.

Nouveaux choix typographiques : Gloock et Karla

- Gloock (Headings) : This serif font brings style and elegance to headings. Its slightly rounded shapes create a welcoming impression and make key information easy to spot.
- Karla (Body Text) : This sans-serif font is modern and easy to read, even on small screens. It contrasts well with Gloock, keeping text clear and comfortable to browse while remaining harmonious.

Why they work together and bring modernity:

Pairing Gloock for headings with Karla for body text creates a balanced contrast between elegance and simplicity. This contrast brings a modern touch to the website by combining a classic, warm style for headings with contemporary legibility for body text, offering an attractive, welcoming, and up-to-date site aligned with Le Friand d'Œuf's identity.

2.2 Issue 2: Consistency, Readability, and Ergonomics

- Overcrowded Homepage

It combines mission, history, and dish showcases, making the site less clear for the user. These could be grouped on a new "About Us" page. This type of page is common on competitor restaurant websites and contributes to increasing the professionalism of a website and building credibility with users.

Unfortunately, I was unable to take more screenshots because the website has disappeared. For this reason, the problem could not be photographed.

• Inconsistent Links to the Menu

On the current site, the menu link in the navigation bar opens an internal page, while the link in the footer opens a separate PDF. This discrepancy causes confusion for users, who don't know what to expect when clicking "Menu". Depending on where they click, they get a different format and reading experience. This inconsistency presents several issues:

- PDFs are less convenient to view on mobile, as they often require zooming and horizontal scrolling.
- The user experience is less smooth and less professional, which can reduce visitor trust.
- Presenting the same content in different ways weakens the overall consistency of the site.

To improve navigation and experience, all menu links should lead to the same responsive page, ensuring a simple, clear, and uniform consultation across all devices.

- Overly Compact Mobile Layout and Poor Responsiveness:

On mobile screens, certain sections of the site appeared squeezed together, with minimal spacing between text, images, and buttons. This made reading uncomfortable and navigation difficult on smartphones or tablets. Spacing, margins, and text alignment were inconsistent across the site. This compact layout led to several issues:

- Content can seem confusing or hard to browse through, frustrating the user.
- The mobile experience fails to reflect the welcoming, friendly side of the restaurant and gives a dated or unmodern impression.

To improve the mobile experience and modernize the site, sections should be reorganized with more spacing to make browsing clear, smooth, and pleasant on all devices.

Proposed Improvements:

- Standardization of menu links for consistent navigation.
- Mobile optimization: reorganization of sections, improved visual hierarchy, and better spacing for smooth reading on smartphones and tablets.
- New "About Us" page: separates history, mission, and dish showcases to keep the homepage concise and focused on user experience.

Expected Results :

- A consistent and intuitive site that is pleasant to read across all devices.
- Enhanced user experience thanks to visual hierarchy and an optimized layout.
- A professional and warm presentation of the restaurant, boosting trust and inviting visitors to dine in or order online.
